

WEEKLY CLASSES

VOLUNTEER BOLIVIA SPANISH SCHOOL

COURSE OVERVIEW

Weekly Schedule/20 hours
Dates: Open

For travelers, long-termers, or our volunteers who want to keep studying Spanish after they finish the immersion course, we offer the option of studying by the week. These sessions can be arranged according to your schedule and needs.

Our teachers work in a team, using materials that we have developed to teach both conversation and grammar. Each student receives an individualized curriculum and materials. All of our professors are professionally trained and have numerous years of experience. Their participatory methodology includes options for local field trips

Before starting students will be informally evaluated to determine their language proficiency level and classes will start from where the student is, based on the teacher's evaluation.

During the course adjustments and modifications will be made in order to meet the interests and priorities of the student. As much as possible instructors will attend to the individual requirements of the students in order to meet the course objectives.

Living with a Bolivian family will make the course a more personal and profound immersion experience, as well as provide you with the opportunity to practice Spanish in everyday situations. We also offer apartments.
